Serving Lemon Grove and nearby communities

Lemon Grove Soroptimists award 'Women in Action'

The Lemon Grove Soroptimist International honored Martha List for her outstanding contribution to the community on March 20, 1991.

List, 83, received the Women in Action Award and $100 to be donated to a charity of her choice for her unselfish help of other senior citizens.

She runs a "taxi" for her friends and neighbors, driving a friend who has Parkinson's disease out to breakfast at least once a week and taking a lady and her grandson to Sunday school every week. During the half-hour between services, she picks up others for church. Whenever she runs into someone at the grocery store who doesn't have a ride home, she takes them—even people she's never met before!

List also belongs to a singing group that goes on tour to entertain other seniors. Hardly a day goes by when she doesn't make at least one trip to take friends or other residents of her convalescent home to the doctor, hospital, drug store, grocery store, to get glasses mended or to go to the chiropractor.

When there is a large group of people who need to get somewhere, List pulls out her motor home and uses it like a bus to transport people to activities such as picnics and parties.

She is concerned with the environment as well, picking up newspapers from her church every Sunday and taking them to be recycled.

Special guest speaker Mayor Dorman commended List for her efforts, saying that Lemon Grove was fortunate to have someone like List working for the community.

Six other women were also recognized for their aid to the community.

Sandy Pfeiffer, a mother of three, is very active in Girl Scouts, PTA and volunteered as a foster parent.

Gloria Campbell has worked in the Lemon Grove School District for 28 years and is currently a teacher at Lemon Grove Middle School. She has been very active wherever she has taught and was honored by being the first Teacher of the Year at Lemon Grove Middle School.

Clara Harris has been the Executive Director of the Heartland Human Relations Association since 1980. Her untiring work for the HHRA in all fields that promote human dignity and her strong commitment to involving the community in cooperative programs to further sound and positive human relationships lead to her nomination of the Women in Action Award.

Dorothy Geldreich was recognized for her regular visits to convalescent home, outstanding contributions to St. John of the Cross activities and her unflagging dedication to the Friends of the Lemon Grove Library.

Margaret Cameron was honored for her strong commitment to the Boy Scouts. She is directly responsible for the growth and development of 54 registered Cub Scout-age boys, through the Boy Scouts of America as Committee Chairperson for Pack 399 in Lemon Grove.

The final woman commended by the Soroptimists was Frances Rowley. She is very active at the Lemon Grove Senior Center, helping as a server during the lunch program, visiting the sick and attending Countywide Nutrition Project meetings.

The judges who selected the winner of the Women in Action Award were Publisher of the Lemon Grove Review Pete Kaufman, Executive Director of the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce Joyce Lazok and Chairman of the Grossmont Union High School District Board June Mott.

Chamber installs new officers

The Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce installed its new officers at the Tickled Trout room of the Ramada Inn in Mission Valley on March 23.

Guest Speaker Jim Dorman gave his State of the City Address, giving an update on various projects throughout the City, and proudly stating that the City has a balanced budget.

The recession has hurt the City, said Dorman, because sales tax is a major source of income. Sales tax revenue is $92,000 below budget, even though it's 16,000 more than last year. However, he said, "The City is well and we'll weather this storm."

Sheriff Jim Roache was also present. He commended Lynne Ziegler for the outstanding job she has been doing at the Lemon Grove Sheriff's station and said that he is finally getting settled into his new job.

East County redistricting to be discussed at April 10 meeting

A public hearing to receive comments of citizens on how to remap the county's supervisory districts will be held April 10 at El Cajon City Hall. The redrawing of district lines is required every ten years after the federal census so that each of the five supervisory districts is equal in population.

The meeting begins at 6:30 p.m. in the El Cajon City Council chambers.

County Chief Administrative Officer Norman W. Hickey called the meetings "an opportunity for the public to provide comments on the guidelines to be used to adjust boundaries and on any issues about redistricting." Following the April hearing, guidelines will be adopted by the Board of Supervisors to assist staff in development of alterna

Mt. Miguel El Trovador News Briefs

Mount Miguel students who took high honors at the San Diego-Tijuana International History Fair on March 17 included Jessica Yambao, Letitia Duprez, Antoniette Java, Jennifer Nelson, Duyen Nguyen, Michelle Firman, Jon Manning, Yvonne Vallejo and Alfred Perez. A special recognition went to Jennifer Chell who placed highest in the category of "senior research papers."

Domingo Rivera, a senior, was selected to compete in the 3A, 2A C.I.F. basketball All-Star game. The game took place March 23 at Serra High School.

Mount Miguel's selection for Boys' State Delegate is junior, Jon Manning. Junior, Ryan Pesicka has been chosen as the alternate. The student delegate will be attending a special conference held during the summer in Sacramento.

Students that are now attending Cuyamaca College as part of the Cuyamaca NOW program are: Marjorie Fajardo, Danny Franklin, Cynthia Gonzales, Yesenia Gonzales, Danny Stuckey, Claudia Gomez, Judith Senano, Timi Brist, Carrie Garcia and Abraham Gaters. These students were recently applauded by their Mount Miguel career center counselors.

Mount Miguel's new football coach, Jim Mann, held a meeting at lunch on March 21 as a way to meet and get to know the junior varsity and varsity football players interested in playing for him next year.

The El Trovador staff is now accepting applications for the 1991-92 newspaper staff. Students who are interested must fill out an application and participate in an interview with the current El Trovador staff. Applications are available in room 231 anytime.

Any student interested in attending Maric College of Medical Careers in San Diego may see Mr. Shultz in the career center for a scholarship application. The $1,000 scholarship may be applied to that college's sports medicine program.

Students will be treated to a special assembly on Tuesday, April 23, during double period two. Featured will be the Camfel Productions multi-media presentation of "Heart and Soul."

The joint end-of-year awards dinner of El Trovador and Reflections Magazine staff members is scheduled for Friday, June 14 at 6 p.m. at Carlos Murphy's in Grossmont Center. Awards will be presented for best articles, photography, captions and headlines to the newspaper staff, and best prose, poem, art, and overall writer awards for the literary magazine. Past students are invited to attend and may call the journalism department at the school for further details.

Last week's spirit award winners were Mrs. Roberta Palser in the attendance office and Mrs. Pat Newman, business teacher. Mount Miguel's ASB selects five students, one teacher and one classified staff member each Friday and checks to see if they are wearing the school colors, red and black. Those who show their school spirit by wearing the colors receive a prize and have their names announced.

Mount Miguel's junior varsity boys' baseball team is 3 and 4, but Coach Jimmy Hurst has high hopes for the team. Most practices have been cancelled due to rain.

El Trovador assistant news editor, Amber Johnson, was one of the certificate winners at the San Diego County "Write-offs" awards ceremony held March 21 at Mount Carmel High School.

El Trovador welcomes three new staff members: Jon Wadley joins the team as a staff photographer, Rachel Rubacaba and Ron Smith as reporters.

Redistricting

tive redistricting plans.

A second community forum will be held in East County in the summer to allow public review and comment, after which Hickey will field formal recommendations with the Board. Supervisors must adopt a new redistricting plan by October 1.

Persons or organizations unable to attend the April meeting can provide comment by writing to Redistricting, Chief Administrative Office, 1600 Pacific Highway, Room 209, San Diego, Ca 92101-2472.

To be equal in terms of population, each of the five supervisory districts should contain 499,603 people based on the 1990 census which shows a countywide population of nearly 2.5 million.

At present, the approximate population count shows:

- District 1 (South County), 453,000;
- District 2 (East County) 483,000;
- District 3 (North City) 487,000;
- District 4 (Mid-Cities), 475,000; and
- District 5 (North County), 600,000.

Personal comments of Councilman Bob Burns

Airport is regional concern

Everyone these days has something to say about our airport situation, so I guess I may as well take a crack at it.

Once again, it appears that narrow and parochial thinking is stronger than the broader regional view. Despite the real and very large problems that San Diego is confronted with today in the matter of air transport facilities, the end of one's nose is where reason stops.

Lindberg Field is too small; is dangerously located for the large planes of today, and cannot satisfy the growth that is sure to come to our area. Even by enlarging it, the ultimate requirements for an international airport just cannot be met.

For the short term, in my opinion, our present airport should be enlarged, at the very least. By taking over part of MCRD, another runway could be built and a longer landing zone could be established. It also seems to me that with the mild to absent winds that we have, the direction of the runways could be shifted a few degrees to the right without difficulty. This could allow an approach over San Diego Bay with a takeoff more over the Highway 5 Rose Canyon corridor with less noise impacts to residential properties as now exists in Point Loma. It seems that such a pattern would be safer and of less impact than the presently practiced routing. I have a lifelong affinity for the Marine Corps, but realistically, I do not believe that a boot camp should be located smack in the middle of the country's eight largest city.

Camp Pendleton could easily accommodate it, and it would serve the training better in that location. Enough of MCRD would be preserved for the parades and graduation ceremonies, and the "O" Club as well. I believe that the Corps is rich enough in tradition from its exploits alone, so that the retention of MCRD for reasons of "tradition" is not a valid argument. It has also been said that it is the "best boot camp." This is not true, according to one who spent also two years of his life on Parris Island...me.

The economic, political and the human factors of having the U.S. Navy in San Diego are just overpowering, and we should all thank our lucky stars they are here. If they say they need Miramar for our national security, then I believe that they do. I do not think that local politicians, who are mostly looking out for their own private interests, are remotely qualified to refute our government or the military hierarchy. With the developers already crowding in around the Naval Air Station and making its use a potential hazard, it is almost impossible that an international airport would be properly placed there.

This leaves Otay Mesa as the only really logical place. Distance-wise, it is closer than most other airports that serve large cities, in terms of transportation to the city's core. All of East County would be a bit further, but if the decision were to be Miramar, it would just be a switch with South County. The land is there, and if not committed to development, will allow a proper airport to be located with safety and low impacts. The multi-national airport is an interesting idea, and could be negotiated with Mexico to the benefit of both nations. The strip of border that would bisect the field would be the most secure portion of its entire length by way of Customs.

The costs of construction and operation should be shared between our two countries, but even if we did pay the lion's share, it would be cheaper than any other consideration for an airport.

The shame of it is that with all of the high and mighty leadership that we have had in San Diego over the past 30 years, we are still at square-one with a suitable airport.

Too much time has passed already, and we should demand that solutions be decided upon, implemented, and put into operation before any more time is wasted. It has to be a cooperative effort with everyone foregoing selfish interests in favor of the "regional good."

Councilman Bob Burns will address matters of concern to Lemon Grove and its citizens. If you have questions or suggestions for Dr. Burns, send them to P.O. Box BB, Lemon Grove, 91946.

Grossmont High School District considers cuts for the 1991-92 school year

by Karen Hackett

Budget and curriculum cuts for the coming school year are being considered by district trustees.

From a list of about 17 proposed Phase 1 cuts, three are likely to have a direct impact on students.

The first major cut is a proposal to urge juniors and seniors who have enough credits to take only five classes. About 90 percent of juniors and seniors are presently enrolled in six classes.

Secondly, cuts in transportation are being proposed, like changing the pick-up route to a four-mile radius, instead of the present three-mile radius.

Another suggested cut is actually an increase in the size of tenth-grade English classes. In doing this, the Grossmont Education Association would have to suspend the standing regulation stipulating that no tenth grade English class can be larger than 25 students. This program is funded by the money received from the state lottery, which would then go toward other expenses.

During the coming months, revisions will be made on the proposed cuts. Any decisions made will be announced by July.

In the process of urging eleventh graders and twelfth graders to five classes, retiring teachers will not be replaced. This means the district will lose 12 retiring teachers next year, saving them approximately $360,000.

Six classes will be offered to all incoming freshmen and sophomores. Juniors and seniors who have failed a class and need credits might have to prove they are ready to work.

"If a student has failed a class and needs the credits in order to qualify for a sixth class next year, going to summer school to show they care may help them earn a sixth class next fall," Grossmont Principal Steve Larivee said.

With the reduction of classes and teachers, some elective courses will also be cut.

Classes will be cut based on the number of students who sign up for them next month. This spring, 16 classes were cut from Grossmont's schedule due to small enrollments.

"High school should be used to provide the most challenging curriculum possible. Anything short of that is not preparing students for college or career," said counselor Joan Gangwisch.

An idea to allow students to take classes more conveniently would be to let community colleges come on to Grossmont's campus and use classrooms in return for their teaching, Larivee said. Students would be able to take most of the classes they want, and it would not cost the district anything.

There are still options available for students to prepare for classes. Enrolling in the school's Regional Occupation Program would give students job experience and signing up for classes at community colleges can earn students college credits.

Joe Freed on the Movies

The Hard Way

Movie star Nick Lang (Michael J. Fox) wants a little respect. He's tired of playing shallow heroes and adventurers. He's tired of winning People's Choice Awards instead of Oscars. In fact, he's just tired of being a movie star ... he wants to be an actor. Which is why he wants to do research on police work with New York detective Lt. John Moss (James Woods) -- maybe it'll give him an edge on a new role as a tough cop.

The problem is, tough cops don't generally like movie stars. And as in the case of Lt. Moss (who is busy investigating a psychopathic killer) they sometimes hate them, but of course, Moss and Lang team up anyway, and what follows is a delightful, often hilarious comedy.

Director John Badham and producer Rob Cohen have redeemed themselves after their last picture, the idiotic "Bird on a Wire." Although only a simple variation on the police "buddy" formula, "The Hard Way" is entertaining, if not always inventive. Woods and Fox work well together as a comic duo, and Woods surprisingly steals every scene. While he does maintain his "tough cop" image first developed in films like "Best Seller" and "Cop," Woods is also hysterically irritable and explosive. Screenwriters Daniel Pyne and Lem Dobbs give Moss the best lines, and Woods' delivery on such quips as "When my butt cheeks learn to chew gum," is priceless. Fox is amiable as the spoiled star, although I had a hard time believing in his "Indiana Jones" screen image. Nick Lang is likable despite his arrogance, and Fox plays him with the right mixture of pizzazz and stupidity.

The supporting acting is mixed -- tainted by Stephen Lang's overacting as the serial killer. Annabella Sciorro is pleasant as the love interest and Delroy Lindo is great as Police Captain Brix. The real surprise in the cast comes from rap star L.L. Cool J as Billy, a undercover policeman. I didn't think it possible, but the guy is actually pretty funny.

The film's resolution is contrived -- the killer takes Moss' girlfriend hostage -- but it's still a pretty good time. If for nothing else, see "The Hard Way" for James Woods. Michael J. Fox may get top billing, but Woods makes the movie.

Commentary

The violence graphically displayed in the now-infamous L.A.P.D. videotape shocks us, but should not surprise us. Man is, and always has been, a most violent creature, and all of the veneer of two thousand years of so-called civilization has not seemed to change his basic nature.

Look around! We are saturated to the bursting point with violence. The body count in TV cop shows is staggering and seems to be growing more graphic as our video techniques improve. In between programs, the promos for theatre movies show a series of martial-arts types beating and pounding everyone in sight. The motion pictures themselves, whether good movie-making or not, are filled with violence and destruction. Today's number-one film, for example, deals with cannibalism and the skinning of female victims by a serial killer.

Our streets are filled with violence and death. A soldier survives the desert war only to be gunned down at home in Detroit. Rape is up all over the country and the violence and death spawned by drug traffickers is epidemic.

Prior to the L.A. video having turned our focus on police brutality, we had come to view the City of Angels as a metropolis held hostage by unrelenting gang warfare. When the L.A. Times would report only three or four killed in gang-related incidents over Saturday and Sunday in their Monday paper, it was editorially viewed as a relatively quiet weekend. The inability of a portion of theatre-goers to gain access to a Westwood theatre recently caused a full-fledged riot with looting and violence.

So why are we surprised when police go on a rampage of hitting and kicking an unarmed man? Because, of course, they are the police and we somehow expect them to be free of gratuitous violence in a milieu in which their daily bread is fraught with violence. We ask: If they are unable to control their violent impulses, then who is?

The answer appears to be that, as a society, we are in danger of crossing that unspoken line upon which our very lives depend.

The Los Angeles police officers who senselessly beat Rodney King, and others guilty of similar brutality and racism, have done a most-profound disservice to society, for it is they whom we count on as the last defense against those who would hurt us. When they themselves become the "hurters," there is nowhere else for us to turn but to iron cages within which to hide, or to vigilantism, which is the ultimate breakdown of an organized society.

Yes, we are asking a great deal from a police force whose lives are permeated by the violence which we ourselves generate and condone, to remain aloof from falling prey to it. But that is exactly what we ask of them - we can ask no less. At the same time, however, perhaps we should be asking ourselves why we, as human beings, are so enamored with violence and its inevitable results.

The police are us, and we are them - no better, no worse - and that is the true tragedy of the whole business.

From Where I Sit

by Frank Andrews

"Time flies when your having fun," they say. But I still can't believe that my middle daughter is about to retire from the phone company. Now I really do feel old.

To prove her intent, she has already purchased an old mansion north of Minneapolis, near St. Cloud. Before her retirement, she thinks that she will have ample time to fix the place up for a "Bed and Breakfast" operation.

"I just want to be my own boss - independent - and work when I feel like it," she bragged. Although she is well-qualified for her new venture, I believe that she will many times wish that she was back at her "9 to 5" job with the Bell System. Any business of motel or inn management which includes meals, room service, housekeeping, and the many, many other chores is not my kind of retirement.

My wife, Willie Marie, and I got a touch of the "B and B" routine while getting a little R and R, rest and relaxation, while on our vacation in the British Isles a few years ago. We traveled England, Ireland and Scotland in a rented, wrong side-of-the-road car, and used nothing but the Bed and Breakfast system. By living with the people right in their own homes (and loving every minute of it), we really got to know them and their ways.

It was at the time when an elaborate breakfast after a peaceful night's sleep in a warm, comfy bed was only one pound ($2.40) for the two of us. We would then go sightseeing the rest of the day, and take our lunch and dinner at a pub or restaurant of our choosing.

Besides the wonderful accommodations, we got to know so much about the native folklore of which the British are mighty proud.

One little lad where we stayed, asked: "Do they really have wild Indians running around all over America?" It was hard to give him an honest answer and not break his fantasy.

I recently saw ads of the new B and B accommodations in this country, where they seem to be catching on. The prices start at about $50 and up per night, which is a far cry from the $2.40 we paid just a few years ago in England.

My daughter is a hard worker, good housekeeper, and a gourmet cook, so she is well-qualified for her new chores. I only hope that she realizes the kind of life she is getting into - long hours with seldom a day off. I'm sure that Sharon, with the help of her beloved cocker spaniel, Max, will make it work.

'Please call me again'

by Joseph Walker

To be honest, I dialed her telephone number by mistake.

"Do you know anything about cats?" she asked after it became clear I had punched the wrong number.

"No, sorry," I said, intending to hang up so I could place my call correctly.

"I have two cats," she said, oblivious to my sincere attempt to terminate our conversation. "But they're gone. I haven't seen them since ... yesterday? Sunday? Oh, I hate it when I can't remember things. But I know it's been a long time since my cats left. You haven't seen them, have you?"

I chuckled silently at her question. Somehow, she hadn't understood that I was calling from several thousand miles away. And with appointments pressing and long-distance charges mounting, I wasn't sure I could afford to get better acquainted - even though it was clear she wasn't going to end this conversation easily. Still, there was something in her voice that gave me enough strength to resist the temptation to hang up.

"No, I don't believe so," I responded at last. "Why don't you tell me about them?"

What followed was a rambling, stream-of-consciousness monologue that managed to leap from cats to kids to life as a coal miner's wife.

After promising to keep an eye out for Hansel and Gretel (her cats) I bade her farewell. "Please," she said plaintively, "call me again."

I absently assured her that I would, and then hung up before it dawned on me that I still didn't know her name. I picked up the telephone to call her back, but I didn't have any idea which number I had mis-dialed in order to reach her in the first place. I began considering all of the mathematical possibilities, but quickly became discouraged. I had just made a promise that I wasn't going to be able to keep.

And a quiet, lonely life just got a little quieter. And lonelier.

Now, if you think for one minute that I'm writing this because I feel guilty and I want somehow to make up for my own thoughtlessness and insensitivity, you're right. The sweet vulnerability of her voice continues to haunt me, reminding me of how shabbily we sometimes treat our elderly in this country.

While other cultures venerate the aged for their wisdom and experience, we tend to view them as an unfortunate obligation - burdensome, expendable -- even disposable.

There are those who claim this is so because we see in them our future, and it frightens us. Others say that our world has come to place such a high value on productivity that anyone who is no longer capable of making a "meaningful contribution" (whatever that means) is suddenly less valuable, and less valued.

Both suppositions are nonsense. If we are fearful of the future we see in our elderly, doesn't it make a lot more sense to treat them as we hope we will be treated rather than to establish a precedent of neglect? And if it's productivity you're looking for, I'll put my 80-year-old father up against any three 25-year-old desk jockeys, and we'll just see who accomplishes more in a day - assuming, of course, that we're able to catch up with Dad in between projects, errands, outings and volunteer service commitments.

Unfortunately, not all of us age as gracefully as my father has. Many are unable to care for themselves, and their dependence upon others is distressing to them and challenging to those who must provide care. Even in these situations, however, it is possible to maintain the loving dignity the elderly are entitled to after spending their lives trying to make the world a better place for us to live in. It doesn't take much to lift the spirits of one who has seen so many years come and go. A simple visit will do it, as will kind words in a card, a letter or a telephone call -- wrong number or otherwise. The important thing is that they be remembered and respected, and that they know somebody still cares. Now, if you'll excuse me, I need to call my dad.

PUBLIC NOTICES

IMPORTANT NOTICE: IF YOUR PROPERTY IS IN FORECLOSURE BECAUSE YOU ARE BEHIND IN YOUR PAYMENTS, IT MAY BE SOLD WITHOUT ANY COURT ACTION, and you may have the legal right to bring your account in good standing by paying all of your past due payments plus permitted costs and expenses within the time permitted by law for reinstatement of your account, which is normally five business days prior to the date set for the sale of your property. No sale date may be set until three months from the date this notice of default may be recorded (which date of recordation appears on this notice). This amount is $2,100.00, as of March 1, 1991, and will increase until your account becomes current. While your property is in foreclosure, you still must pay other obligations (such as insurance and taxes) required by your note and deed of trust or mortgage. If you fail to make future payments on the loan, pay taxes on the property, provide insurance on the property, or pay other obligations as required in the note and deed of trust or mortgage, the beneficiary or mortgagee may require as a condition to reinstate that you provide reliable written evidence that you paid all senior liens, property taxes, and hazard insurance premiums. Upon your written request, the beneficiary or mortgagee will give you a written itemization of the entire amount you must pay. You may not have to pay the entire unpaid portion of your account, even though full payment was demanded, but you must pay all amounts in default at the time payment is made. However, you and your beneficiary or mortgagee may mutually agree in writing prior to the time the notice of sale is posted (which may not be earlier than the end of the three-month period stated above) to, among other things, (1) provide additional time in which to cure the default by transfer of the property or otherwise; (2) establish a schedule of payments in order to cure your default; or both (1) and (2). Following the expiration of the time period referred to in the first paragraph of this notice, unless the obligation being foreclosed upon or a separate written agreement between you and your creditor permits a longer period, you have only the legal right to stop the sale of your property by paying the entire amount demanded by your creditor. To find out the amount you must pay, or to arrange for payment to stop the foreclosure, or if your property is in foreclosure for any other reason, contact: CASA DEL CIELO HOMEOWNERS ASSOCIATION c/o Association Assessment Service Co., 1800 North Broadway, Suite 100, Santa Ana, California 92706; Telephone (714) 953-6810, Extension 212. If you have any questions, you should contact a lawyer or the government agency which may have insured your loan. Notwithstanding the fact that your property is in foreclosure, you may offer your property for sale, provided the sale is concluded prior to the conclusion of the foreclosure. Remember, YOU MAY LOSE LEGAL RIGHTS IF YOU DO NOT TAKE PROMPT ACTION.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

San Diego County Water Authority
SDCWA Pipeline 4 Extension, Phase I
Realignment and Combined
San Diego 13/Otay 5
Flow Control Facility
Proposed Negative Declaration

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to all those interested in the subject matter that a proposed Mitigated Negative Declaration (MND) has been released for public review by the San Diego County Water Authority (SDCWA) for the aforementioned project.

The SDCWA proposes: (1) realignment of 1,700 feet of the previously approved Pipeline 4 Extension, Phase I (P4EI); (2) grading of an access road along a portion of P4EI; (3) construction of a flow control facility; and (4) installation of two short segments of pipeline, one approximately 36-inches in diameter and the other approximately 24-inches in diameter. The project site is located in an unincorporated part of San Diego County just north of the Sweetwater Dam and the South Bay Freeway (SR 54). The proposed flow control facility (FCF) and realignment of Pipeline 4 Extension, Phase I (P4EI) would require the acquisition of a 3.67 acre lot located on the west of Elkton Place at its intersection with Paradise Valley Road.

Environmental analysis for P4EI, a 96-inch diameter pipeline, and service connections to San Diego No. 13 and Otay Water District No. 3 pipelines was included in the Final Program EIR for the Water Distribution Plan (SCH#87112505, dated June 1989). Under the currently proposed project, these facilities would be shifted a short distance to the west. The proposed realignment would extend from the intersection of Elkton Boulevard and Paradise Valley Road to the northern end of Aaran Avenue. P4EI would be tunneled under SR 54. A twelve-foot wide, maintenance road would remain along a portion of the realignment. The remainder of the easement would be hydroseeded with non-invasive grasses or a native plant mix.

The proposed FCF would regulate flows from P4EI to two local water agencies, the City of San Diego and Otay Water District. All above-ground equipment will be housed in a single story building surrounded by fencing. The building will measure approximately 75 feet wide, 30 feet long, and 15 feet high. Two pipes, one approximately 36-inches and one approximately 24-inches in diameter, would carry the water from the FCF across Paradise Valley Road to an existing 42-inch pipeline.

Details of this project and a summary of environmental effects are presented in the MND. The MND was prepared under the requirements of the California Environmental Quality Act (Section 21000 et seq. of the Government Code) and CEQA Guideline (Section 15000 et seq.).

ALL INTERESTED PERSONS are hereby notified that the public review period will end April 11, 1991, during which time written comments are solicited on the MND. This document is available for public review at the San Diego County Water Authority offices 3211 Fifth Avenue in San Diego (92103) and 610 West 5th Avenue in Escondido (92025).

The public hearing originally scheduled for March 14 has been rescheduled for 4:00 p.m., April 11, 1991 at the SDCWA's San Diego office. All comments received during the public review period will be considered in the preparation of the final MND, which will be presented to SDCWA's Board of Directors at their April 11, 1991 meeting. If you have any questions, you may contact Mr. Larry Hobson or Mr. Michael Suft of SDCWA at (619) 480-1991.

Celebrate Holy Week with Lemon Grove Lutheran Church

Holy Week services at Lemon Grove Lutheran Church, 2055 Skyline Drive, are scheduled to begin on Maundy Thursday at 1 p.m. with a 7 p.m. with communion services.

Good Friday Tenebrae services will begin at 7:30 p.m. The area in and around the altar will be draped in black paraments, and the large cross at the foot of the steps also will be draped in black. As each of the seven last words Christ spoke from the cross are read, lights begin to dim, until finally, all lights are extinguished.

Worshippers leave the church in total silence, not to return until Easter morning.

On Easter Sunday, sunrise services will begin at 6:30 a.m. with the church garbed in dazzling white paraments and lights shining everywhere.

Special music by the youth and chancel choirs, joined by the handbell choir, brass ensemble, carillons and organ, will peal out the joyous words: "He is risen!" Rev. E. J. Volkmann will preach the sermon. Easter breakfast will be served at 7:30 a.m. The festival service of worship will be repeated at 9 a.m.

"If you don't have a church home or are a visitor, please join us for our Holy Week services," urged Pastor Volkmann. "In these times, we need the triumphant message of Easter, preceded by the passion of Maundy Thursday and Good Friday, to lift our spirits and hearts. Posed against the background of the Persian Gulf War, Easter will be especially meaningful this year."

All service personnel are invited.
